Heritage Alteration Permit (HAP) & ongoing consultation

- Consultation and engagement regarding the proposed heritage wall alterations took place throughout summer
- Permit application was considered and approved by New Westminster City Council on September 13, 2021
- Consultation regarding the interpretative panels and a heritage plaque to continue in 2022

Proposal for interpretative panels and a heritage plaque

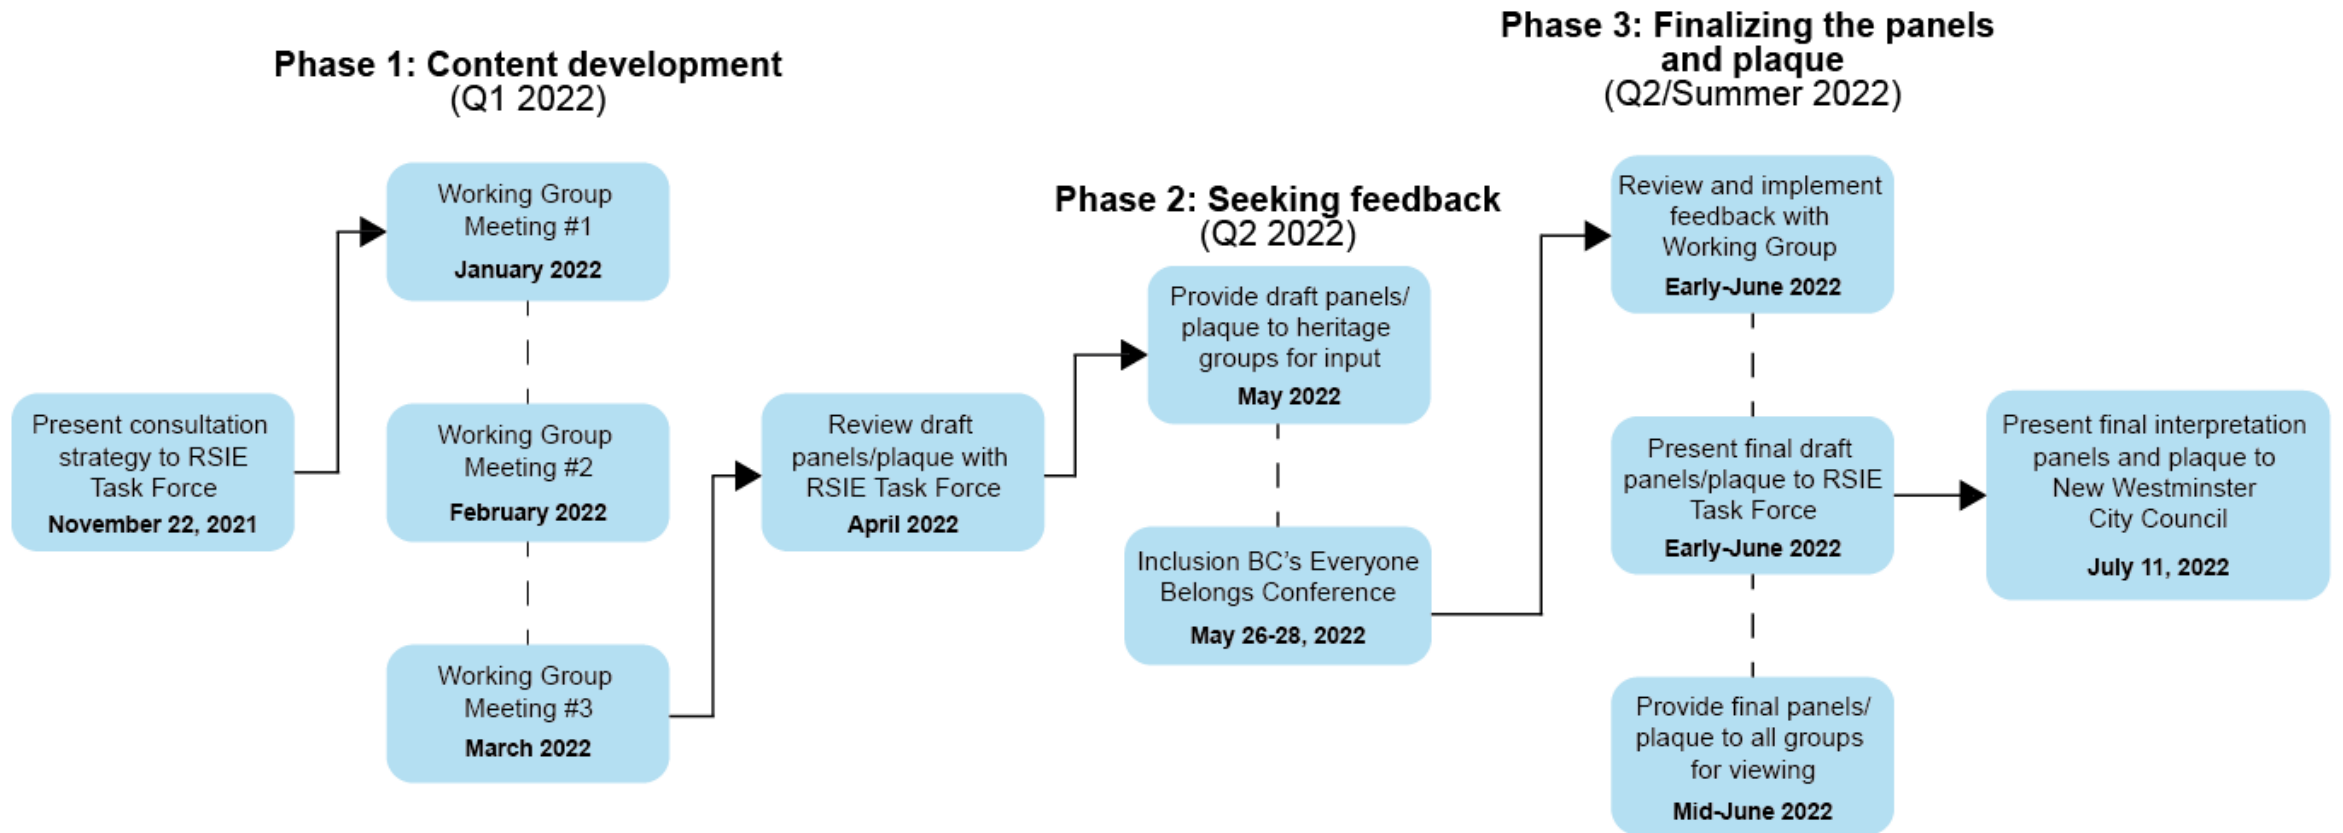

- Two different interpretative panels (or series of panels) located in different locations within the new plaza
 - One panel to recognize the lived experience of the Woodlands institution, including personal stories
 - One panel to acknowledge the historical significance of the Woodlands institution and describe the work being done to support survivors now and in the future
- A plaque to acknowledge the heritage value of the Woodlands Wall
 - Developed in a different format than the interpretative panels and located separately

Existing interpretation panels for the Woodlands Centre Block

Consultation strategy

- Panels developed in collaboration with Inclusion BC and the Community Living Society
- Three phases of consultation, beginning in January 2022:
 - Phase 1: Content development
 - Phase 2: Seeking feedback
 - Phase 3: Finalizing content
- Would involve:
 - Inclusion BC
 - The Community Living Society
 - A working group as determined by Inclusion BC / the Community Living Society
 - The Reconciliation, Social Inclusion and Engagement Task Force

The RSIE Task Force's role

- Thoughts on the overall approach?
- Have we included all stakeholders to be consulted?
- Role of the RSIE Task Force:
 - Frequency and timing of involvement
 - Level of involvement in content development
